SMC President's Statement on Online Classes

Dear Parents and Students,

We hope that this message finds you well in these uncertain and troubling times. We, at SMC are thankful for your partnership and trust in the education we provide. We would like to reassure you that our commitment to you has become stronger especially now that we all battle Covid -19.

We surely miss our students, the noises they make, your visit to the PR Office and to our campus. However, since we have been asked to practice social distancing, we suffer the consequences of not communicating personally face-to-face. It is good that we can go online and still make the most of learning through synchronous means via Google Classroom and asynchronous means via email and submission of students' work in Moodle. These are two modes of communication via the internet we never thought that we will be doing extensively with our students. However, with this pandemic virus, SMC is making the most of it to facilitate the learning content, the learning competencies that our students need to have in the grade level where they are in.

We recognize the challenges of online learning. Like you, our teachers experience interconnectivity problems, among other concerns. Indeed, we all need to practice patience, grit and growth mindset principles to face the challenges we encounter on a day -to - day basis. I encourage everyone to persevere until we resume classes on April 15, 2020.

Fly High Royals! Keep safe and keep learning.

Sincerely,

Ms Beng Yague
SMC, President
